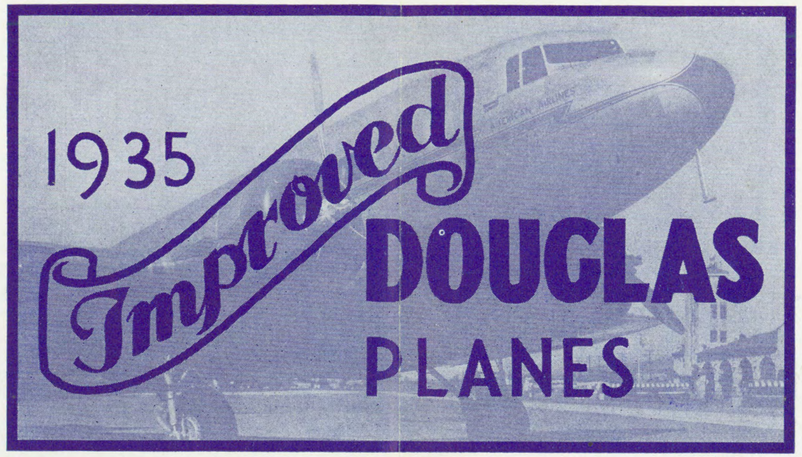
will introduce, on or about December 1st, a fleet of new



Faultless performance over grueling thousands of miles recently demonstrated the ability of these remarkable planes when the Douglas entry of the Royal Dutch Air Lines placed second in the London-Melbourne Race, leading all other American-built planes to the finish. It is with considerable pride, therefore, that American Airlines announces the addition of The 1935 Improved Douglas to its present fleet of Curtiss-Wright Condor Sleeper Planes and Day Coaches and Vultee transports. We have complete confidence that these planes, plus American Airlines service, will continue to provide a means of transportation so excellent that you who travel will, increasingly and inevitably, Fly American.
