"The airplane has shriveled and shrunk distance...It quickens understanding among peoples and stimulates trade among them... It will bring the nations of the Americas closer together as its uses are more fully developed."

ERIC A. JOHNSTON
President United States Chamber of Commerce.

Here IS THE CHALLENGE

. . . a postwar national income which will assure the dignity of productive jobs for all!

Experts have estimated that to maintain our economy and assure full employment our nation must continue an annual national income of at least 150 billion dollars. To accomplish this the U. S. must successfully develop the full potential of its domestic and international commerce. Trade must be implemented by effective transportation.

To assist in the stimulation of commerce, Braniff Airways, Inc., and Aerovias Braniff, S. A. propose a coordinated plan of air service for the Americas. The routes planned would help to provide needed transportation among the principal productive areas and their markets in this hemisphere.

BRANIFF AIRWAYS
