PENNSYLVANIA-CENTRAL Airlines

SEC. 562, P. L. & R.

War has given a new meaning to the swiftness and dependability of air transportation. Since the role of the airlines in the war has aroused considerable speculation, HERE ARE THE FACTS:

1. From the very beginning of the national emergency, the airlines have had a blanket authority from the Government to obtain all material needed for maintenance of airplanes at peak efficiency and have been encouraged by the Government to build inventories of spare parts larger than ever before to assure regular operation.
2. Every Capitaliner is constantly under the most rigid Government and Company inspection which has increased in character.
3. Full cooperation with our armed forces leaves key operating personnel at their important transportation jobs so that our planes are flown by our experienced airline pilots and serviced by our expert, trained crews.
