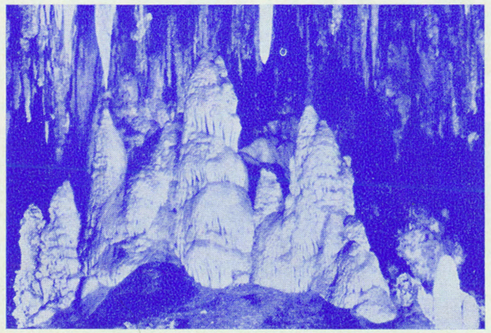
CARLSBAD CAVERNS



Near El Paso is the eighth wonder of the world—the CARLSBAD CAVERNS. Supreme in size and beauty, this awe-inspiring underground spectacle will be viewed, this month alone, by 50,000 visitors from all parts of the world.

The above scene is from the Big Room, where the world's largest stalagmite—62 feet high, 16 feet in diameter—seems lost beneath a ceiling 350 feet high. The enthralled visitor is impressed by gargantuan size, but the thrilling and indescribable memories come from the breath-taking beauty of frozen cascades and delicate fairylands.

The Caverns are best reached by the all-year service of CONTINENTAL to El Paso, then a Carlsbad Cavern Coach.

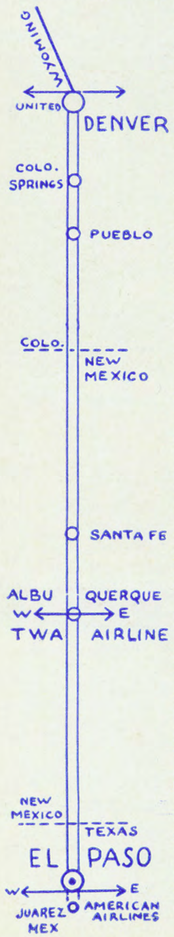
AMERICA'S MOST HISTORIC ROUTE

CONTINENTAL passengers now spend comfortable minutes traversing America's Most Historic Route—where hardy pioneers spent torturous days on the Old Santa Fe Trail or with Coronado and De Onate on the Trail of the Conquistadores. Your luxurious Continental skyliner unfolds magnificent vistas of mountains and mesas and waters heretofore hidden from the eyes of man.

● The Indian Pueblo of Taos, N. M., shown on the front cover, represents America's earliest apartment dwellings. These pueblos were ancient when Columbus made his first voyage westward—today your C. A. L. skyliner wings over Pueblos in which thousands of Indians still live.



From El Paso north, Spanish explorations started in the early sixteenth century (a century before the Mayflower landed on Plymouth Rock). As a result, the oldest seat of government in the U. S. is at Santa Fe, N. M., the center of importance on America's oldest road, the Santa Fe Trail.

The variety and magnificence of scenery on Continental's route is unmatched. From the stark sheer spires of the Organ Mts. at El Paso to beloved Pikes Peak in the Colorado Springs and Denver area, the air traveler is thrilled by an ever changing panorama. Lovely miniature painted deserts, colorful canyons, melancholy lava beds, snow-like miles of the White Sands National Monument, memorable Fort Union of Civil War days, the uncertain yet beautiful Rio Grande—all blend together to make an unforgettable journey.

● Your Captain or First Officer will gladly tell you more about Continental's ever-interesting country—as, for instance, the "Blood of Christ" Mts. (Sangre de Cristo), and the "City of Holy Faith" (Santa Fe).
