The INTERLINE System

A Nation-wide Service

In addition to serving directly twenty-eight cities on the Atlantic Seaboard, Eastern Air Transport provides service, through General Air Express, to nearly one hundred other important cities throughout the country.

General Air Express is an association of five airlines, formed to expedite the nation-wide movement of express shipments. These airlines, flying nearly seventy-five thousand miles daily, serve one hundred and twenty-three cities in thirty states.

Through rates will be quoted to any of these cities. These low rates include pick-up and delivery by uniformed Postal Telegraph messengers, which eliminates terminal delays.

General Air Express, through connections with other airlines and with rail and bus lines, provides service to all parts of the United States, Canada, and Central and South America. Shipments to South America, via General Air Express and Pan American Airways, are days instead of weeks in transit.

To ship by General Air Express, it is necessary only to phone Postal Telegraph, or any office of
