PLANE FACTS

Q. How do I make an airline reservation?

A. Simply call the local office of Chicago and Southern. Tell the reservation agent where you want to go and how many people will be included. He will handle the rest and give you immediate confirmation. If your destination is not on the C & S System, he will make reservations for you with the correct airline.

Q. When should reservations be made?

A. Make your reservation as far in advance as possible, in person or by telephone, and try to pick up your tickets early. If you change plans, don't forget to cancel your reservation. If you don't, some other passenger may not be able to secure a seat. When you make the proper cancellations and free your seat for another traveler, you are giving him and the airline the cooperation that will enable C & S to accommodate you and others at all times.

Q. Where do I pick up my tickets?

A. Chicago and Southern maintains conveniently-located downtown ticket offices in most of the cities on its system. In smaller cities, tickets may be picked up at the airport.

Q. How do I reach the airport?

A. At the time you make reservations you will be asked whether you wish transportation to the airport. If you do, C & S has made arrangements for transportation to the airport from the major hotels. The rates are usually from 50 cents to one dollar. When you reach your destination, transportation will be waiting to take you downtown.

Q. What do I do on reaching the airport?

A. Be sure to check in at the C & S ticket office there before boarding your plane. The agent there will give you final boarding information.

Q. How much luggage am I allowed to take on the plane?

A. Forty pounds of luggage may be carried free on your ticket. This is quite a bit more than the average well-packed suitcase. Additional luggage will be carried at nominal rates per pound. More liberal allowances are made for international passengers. Incidentally, once you reach the ticket office or the terminal, the airline takes over your luggage and it is weighed and checked before you leave and delivered to you when you reach your destination.

Q. Is my seat reserved when traveling Chicago and Southern?

A. Our confirmation of your reservation request is your assurance of a seat to your destination. When you get on the plane, you are entitled to any empty seat except those tagged "OCCUPIED," which we are holding for passengers who have boarded at preceding stations.

Q. What dining service is provided when I travel by air?

A. Chicago and Southern provides delicious meals at appropriate hours. Breakfast, lunch, and dinner are all served piping hot from our modern galleys with our compliments. Beverages and between-meal snacks are also provided.

Q. Is there a washroom aboard the plane?

A. A completely equipped washroom is at your disposal.

Q. Can my baby come with me when I travel C & S?

A. Of course! Air travel is ideal for babies. You eliminate those bothersome overnight journeys. And the C & S stewardess is always ready to help with conveniences such as warming the baby's bottle. What's more, babies under two can ride free on every adult ticket—one baby per adult ticket.

Q. Who makes up the crew?

A. On all C & S planes, the crew consists of a pilot, co-pilot, and stewardess. These people have been trained most thoroughly at our special training schools. Periodically they are given refresher courses and are constantly kept abreast of new aviation developments. Many of our pilots have flown over a million miles, and all are experts in such matters as flight planning, weather observation, radio control, navigation, and instrument flying. Stewardesses are completely schooled in the art of preparing and serving meals, helping with children, and dispensing information. They are with us to help YOU.

Q. Where do I claim my luggage at my destination?

A. Chicago and Southern porters will have your luggage at the limousine loading point a few minutes after you land.

We appreciate your patronage. Fly with us . . . often!
