Indian Country

CONTINENTAL flies through the heart of the Indian country of the southwest. There are more Indians living under aboriginal conditions in New Mexico, Arizona, and southern Colorado than anywhere else in the country.

Romantic old Santa Fe in New Mexico is the oldest seat of government in the U. S., first settled by white men about 1510—a full hundred years before the Mayflower landed on Plymouth Rock. Indians vied with six different groups of white men for control of this section for almost four hundred years.

Accordingly, CONTINENTAL has adopted a Pueblo Indian in tribal headdress as a symbol of the historic and romantic background of its route, a route identified with the Conquistadores and the Old Santa Fe Trail.

Note: Half-fare for children now!

New Phoenix Connection

Please note the greatly improved service from Phoenix, Tucson, and Douglas to Albuquerque and points north and east. This is made possible by a slight change in American Airlines service into El Paso.

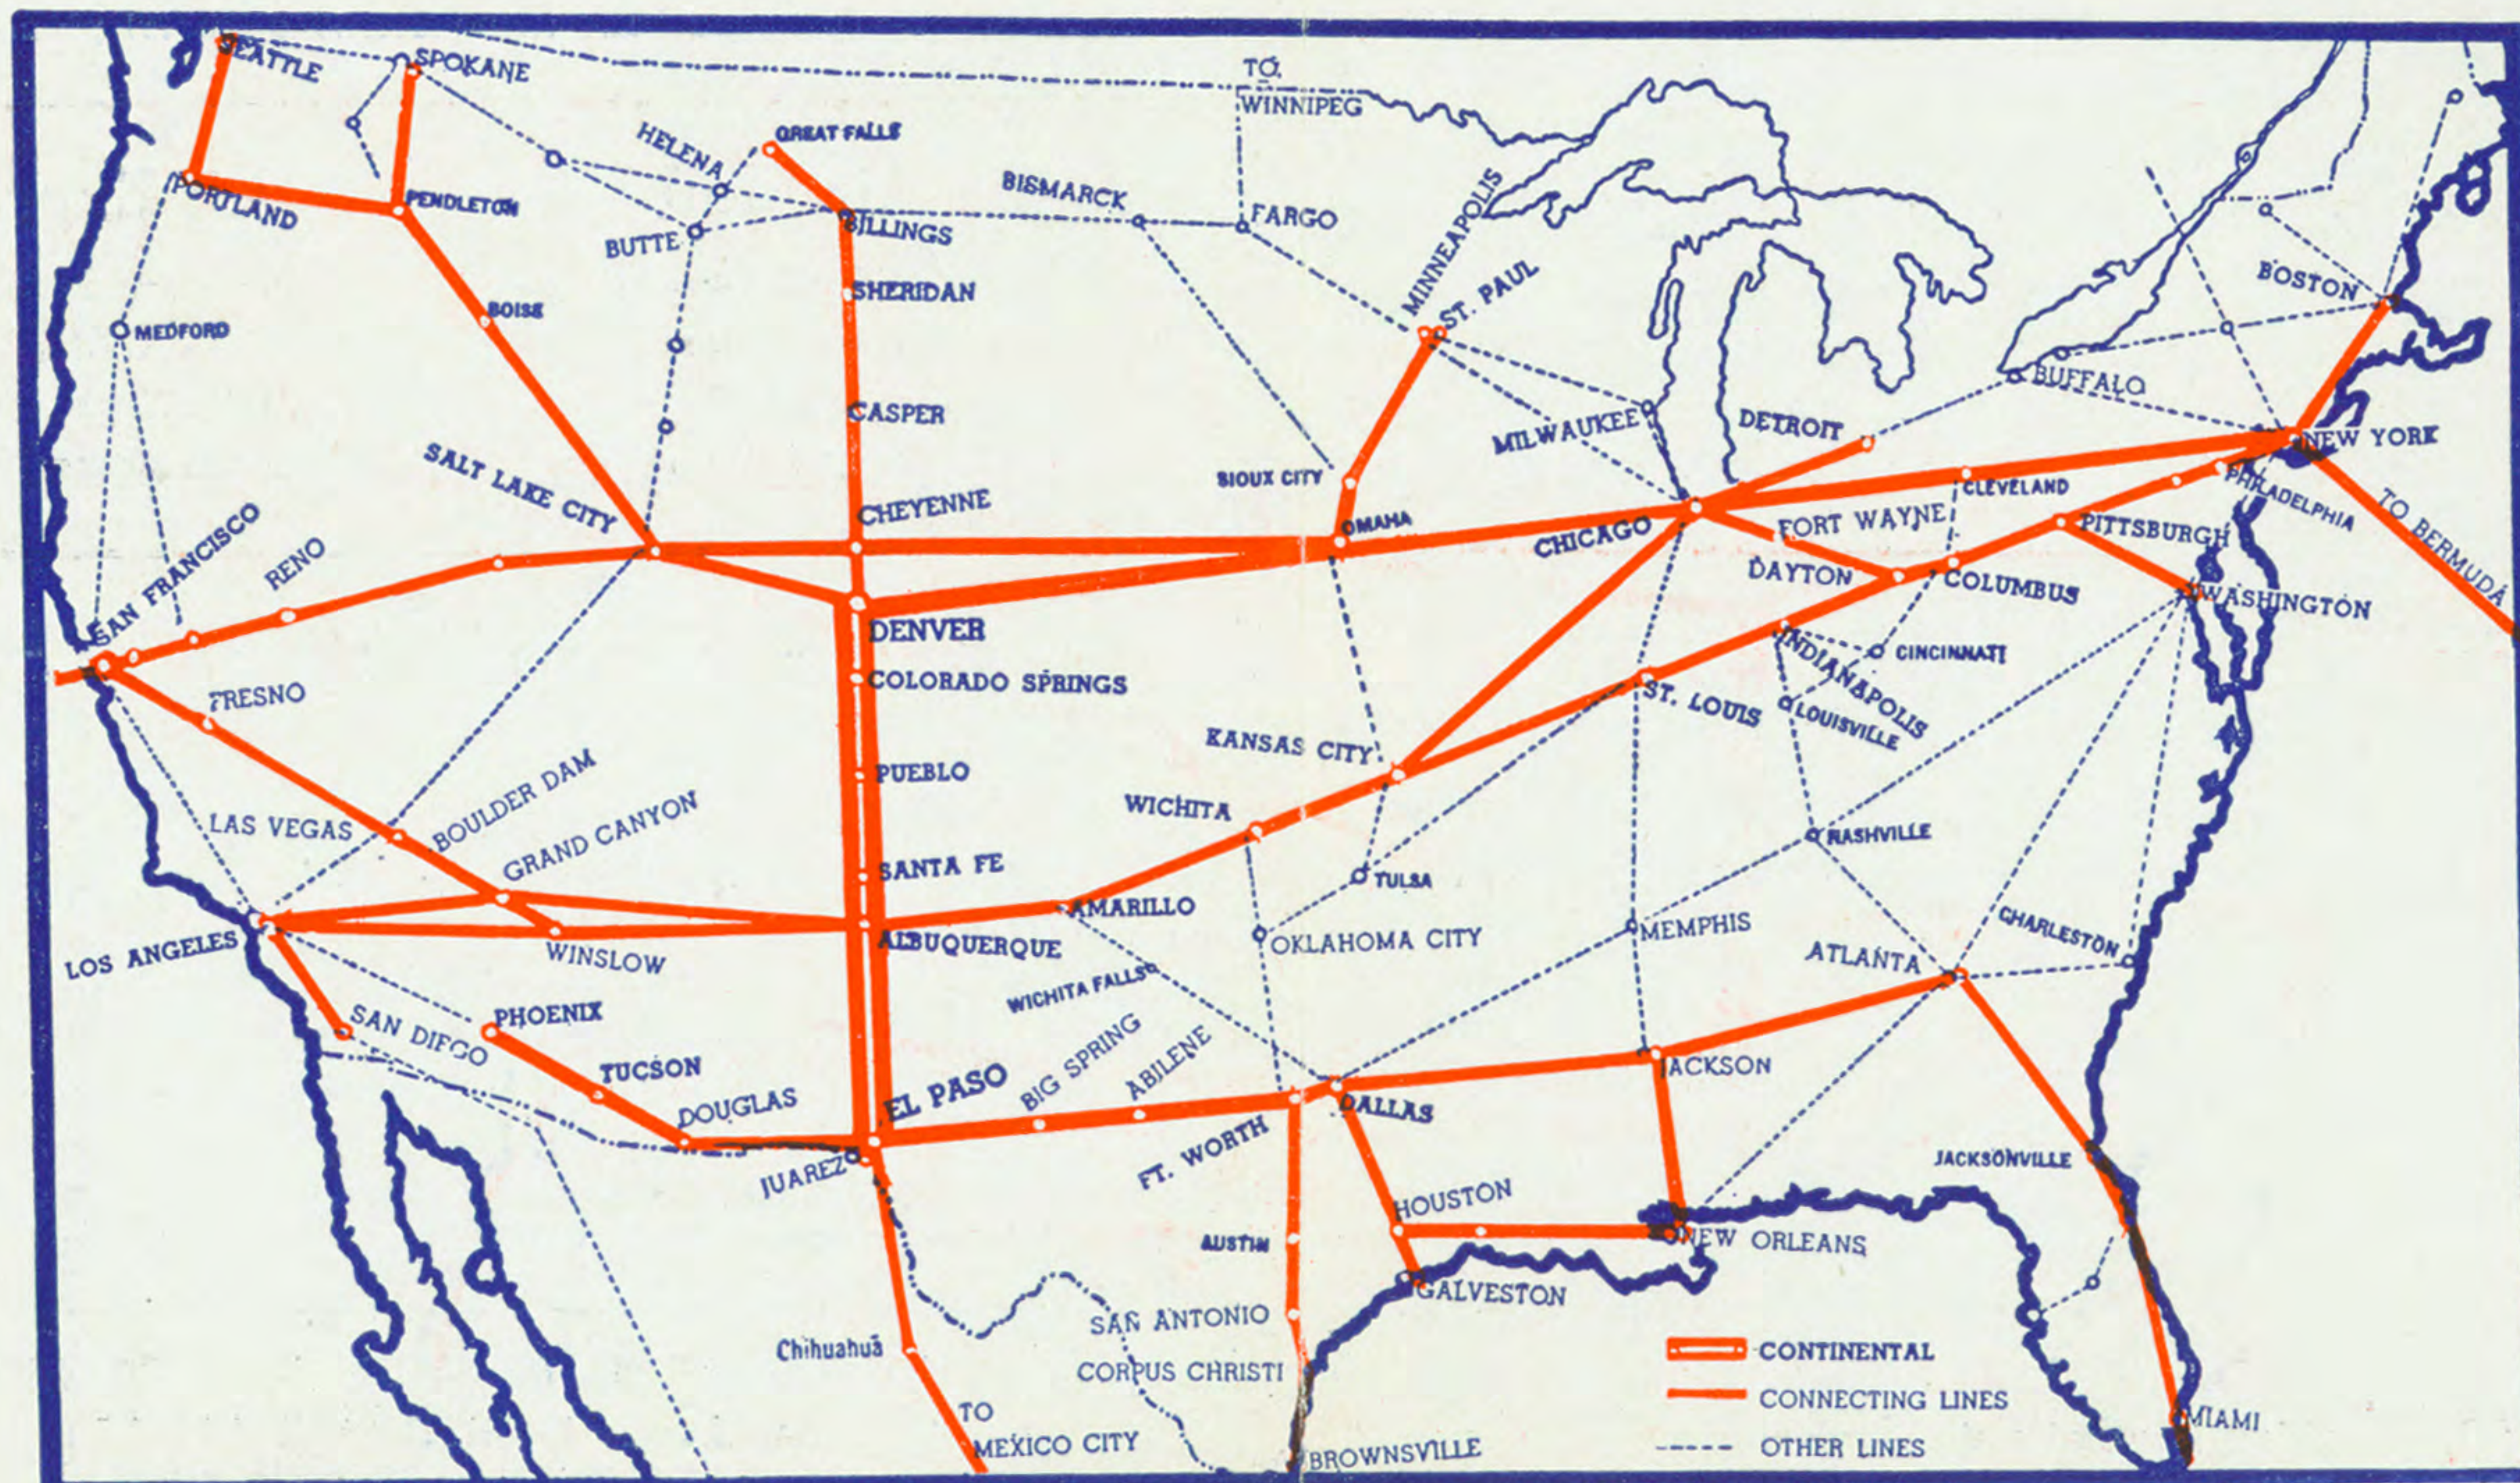

This change permits a late morning departure from Arizona points, and an afternoon arrival in Continental cities. An early evening arrival is also available at Amarillo, Wichita, and Kansas City.

National Air Travel Week

The first week in October has been designated as National Air Travel Week to commemorate the first decade of organized Air Transportation. The airlines of the country are now flying over a million miles a week, and a million passengers a year.

CONTINENTAL is proud to have played its part in making this record possible. Our Operations and Maintenance departments are recognized by the Government as being among the most efficient in the country. Our route is an inherently safe one, both through favorable terrain and excellent weather. And our Lockheed "12" planes have the world's highest ratio of power to weight for transport planes.
