Beech 99

de Havilland Twin Otter

EQUIPMENT

Metro flies the popular Beech "99" Commuter Airliner and the de Havilland of Canada "Twin Otter". Both are prop jets and flown by a Captain and First Officer. The Beech "99" is a low wing, retractable gear aircraft slightly faster than the Twin Otter. The Twin Otter is a "Stol" aircraft—for short field takeoff and landing. It is capable of very slow flight and touch down speeds. It has a high wing with fixed landing gear. Both airplanes are the leading aircraft in the shuttle/commuter airline industry.

METRO AIRLINES

Metro Airlines has been providing high frequency shuttle service between Houston's Intercontinental Airport and other cities on the Texas Gulf Coast since Intercontinental opened in the summer of 1969. Since that time, Metro has flown hundreds of thousands of shuttle passengers on thousands of on-time flights.
