SARASOTA-BRADENTON SCHEDULES BECOME EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 1

Today National Airlines proudly announces resumption of service to Sarasota and Bradenton through the Sarasota-Bradenton Airport. When service was suspended many months ago pending completion of airport improvements, National promised the citizens of these two important communities that schedules would be resumed as soon as possible.

During the intervening period we have been eager to renew our service at the earliest opportunity. That time has come, and we return with a feeling of pride and privilege in once more having the colorful and important cities of Sarasota and Bradenton as ports of call on The Buccaneer Route.

To Sarasota-Bradenton National Airlines brings an airline service backed by a decade of proven achievement in meeting the diversified and exacting demands of one of America's most vital war activity areas. Today National is flying more than 2,561,000 revenue miles a year... carrying more than 100,000 passengers and nearly two million pounds of air cargo annually... and providing the fastest schedules of any public air carrier.
