Here We Come . . .
 Weather or Not!

Maybe it's happened to you . . . the sky looks dark, the clouds are heavy . . . yet your flight hasn't been cancelled Why? Because local weather is not a reliable indication of true flight conditions. West Coast Airlines operating policies allow no ship to leave the ground when conditions involving safety of operation are questionable.

That's why any airline pilot will tell you . . . seasons have nothing to do with safety. Flight safety depends on being prepared for climatic conditions—and years of engineering and research have given the nation's scheduled airlines the necessary knowledge. All 16 of the nation's feeder airlines—and WCA was one of the first—have a perfect safety record since 1945 when this type of service began. To date they have flown 1,317,000 passengers more than 268,135,000 passenger miles without a serious accident of any kind. That's why we say: "Fly WCA."

And Look Down on Crowded, Hazardous Highways!
